(1) The summary risk indicator (SRI) is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the market or because we are not able to pay you. It ranges from 1 (low risk) to 7 (high risk). This indicator is not constant and will change according to the fund's risk profile. The lowest category does not mean risk-free. Historical data, such as that used to calculate the SRI, may not be a reliable indication of the fund's future risk profile. There is no guarantee that the investment objectives in terms of risk will be achieved.

SUSTAINABLE REPORT – METHODOLOGY

ODDO BHF AM considers that measuring the environmental, social and governance impact of an investment is an essential step in disseminating good practices in ESG integration. To do this, it is imperative to have reliable, simple quantitative criteria (no reprocessing) and to allow comparison between portfolios regardless of their composition (large vs midcaps, geographical and sectoral diversity).

The choice of indicators is therefore crucial for the relevance of impact measurement. The data for the environmental indicators come from our external non-financial analysis provider, MSCI. We systematically indicate the availability of the data at the level of the portfolio and its benchmark.

Carbon metrics methodology: We updated our methodology of carbon intensity calculation.

Starting January 31st, 2023, when reported carbon values are unavailable or inconsistent, estimated carbon values are used.

The estimations are based on average carbon value (scope 1+2 emissions) of sectoral peers as a function of revenues

MONTHLY MANAGEMENT COMMENT

May benefited from a ceasefire in the Middle East, which eased the pressure on oil prices.

The US job market remained buoyant, with 115,000 net new jobs created in April and the unemployment rate stabilising at 4.3%. The consumer price index (CPI) and the producer price index (PPI) firmed to 3.8% and 6.0% respectively due to the earlier surge in oil prices and the cost of transport and associated services. The PMI indices also remained in positive territory (composite PMI at 51.7%) and the 2.5% annualised rise in second-quarter GDP confirmed the surprising strength of the US economy.

US equities were therefore clearly on an uptrend, driven by technology and cyclical stocks associated with the dynamic cycle of AI infrastructure investment. The S&P gained 5.2% and the Nasdaq 10.5%.

In Europe, the situation was much less favourable. The knock-on effect of investment in AI is still only moderate, while inflationary pressure maintains a firm foothold – with the CPI at 3.0% – and looks set to rise. The PMI sank into negative territory, at 47.5 compared with 48.8 the previous month.

Nevertheless, European equities rose. The MSCI Europe NR index was up by 3.16%, driven by the technology sector (+11.5%), cyclical sectors such as basic materials (+8.7%), and those benefiting from the easing of tensions in the Middle East, such as hotels & leisure (9.5%). Conversely, the energy (-7.0%), utilities (-5.6%) and insurance (-2.2%) sectors finished in the red.

The fund benefited from the surge in some of its companies exposed to the AI infrastructure theme, especially Technoprobe (semiconductor test probes) and Aixtron (complex wafer preparation equipment), but suffered from its high exposure to the healthcare and medtech sector, which continues to suffer from the lack of interest from traders looking for companies with more immediate growth prospects.

In an uncertain and changing world, we stand by our investment philosophy. We invest in companies that are able to adapt to the new rules of international trade, and to the ongoing technological and geopolitical shifts. We make sure that their competitive advantage remains sustainable, ensuring their ability to grow across the world and to outpace global GDP growth.

RISKS:

The fund is exposed to the following risks :risk of capital loss, equity risk, interest rate risk, credit risk, risk associated with discretionary management, risk associated with commitments on forward financial instruments, counterparty risk, risk associated with holding small and medium capitalisations, risks associated with securities financing transactions and collateral management, Sustainability risk and on an ancillary basis currency risk

SFDR CLASSIFICATION²

The EU Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation (SFDR) is a set of EU rules which aim to make the sustainability profile of funds transparent, more comparable and better understood by end investors. Article 6: The management team does not consider sustainability risks or adverse effects of investment decisions on sustainability factors in the investment decision making process. Article 8: The management team addresses sustainability risks by integrating ESG criteria (Environment and/or Social and/or Governance) into its investment decision making process. Article 9: The management team follows a strict sustainable investment objective that significantly contributes to the challenges of the ecological transition, and addresses Sustainability Risks through ratings provided by the Management Company's external ESG data provider.
