How investors should use this information:

The above figures are shown on a cumulative basis for investors who have held units throughout the reporting period. For investors who bought or sold units during the reporting period a table of the income and expenses will be provided.

An investor who has held units throughout the entire period should take the income or expense figures as reported for UK income tax purposes for the relevant income tax period.

An investor who bought/sold units part way through the period should calculate their taxable income or expense by taking the cumulative figure at the date of disposal and subtracting the cumulative figure at the date of acquisition. Where the units were held throughout the period the cumulative figure at the date of disposal should be used. The income or expense can be allocated to the appropriate tax year.

Investors holding units in the fund as at 31 March 2025 should also include any "Excess Reportable Income" amounts reported above and multiplying by the number of units held at 31 March 2025. The Fund remains a reporting fund as at the date of this report.

Note 1: Dividend income per unit is calculated after deducting any withholding taxes. Additional income tax may be payable on the basis and withholding taxes suffered.

Note 2: Expenses per unit are based on the total expenses of management incurred by the Fund.

The information provided above is not intended to constitute legal, tax or investment advice, and investors should seek their own advice on the tax consequences of an investment in the Fund.

An investor who bought/sold units part way through the period should take the date of disposal and subtracting the income figure at the date of disposal. They should just take the cumulative figure at the date of disposal. This applies from 5 April.

Investors holding units in the fund as at 31 March 2025 should use the per unit amounts reported above and multiplying by the number of units held. The Fund remains a reporting fund as at the date of this report.

Note 1: Dividend income per unit is calculated after deducting any income by source basis and withholding taxes suffered.

Note 2: Expenses per unit are based on the total expenses of the Fund.

The information provided above is not intended to constitute legal or tax advice on the tax consequences of an investment in the Fund.

How investors should use this information:

The above figures are shown on a cumulative basis for investors who have held units throughout the reporting period. For investors who bought or sold units during the reporting period

An investor who has held units throughout the entire period should take the total income or expense to be reported for UK income tax purposes for the relevant income tax year.

An investor who bought/sold units part way through the period should calculate the income or expense on a pro-rata basis by multiplying the cumulative figure at the date of disposal by the number of units held at the date of disposal. The income or expense can be calculated by multiplying the cumulative figure at the date of disposal by the number of units held at the date of disposal.

Investors holding units in the fund as at 02 July 2024 should also include the income or expense reported above and multiplying by the number of units held at the end of the reporting period. The Fund remains a reporting fund as at the date of this report.

Note 1: Dividend income per unit is calculated after deducting any withholding taxes suffered.

Note 2: Expenses per unit are based on the total expenses of management divided by the number of units in the fund.

The information provided above is not intended to constitute legal, tax or other advice on the tax consequences of an investment in the Fund.
