INVESTMENT STRATEGY

The investment objective is to outperform the ESTER index +2% (capitalised), net of fees, on an annual basis. The Sub-fund does not have a benchmark. Given the Fund's discretionary management style, its management is not linked to any index. The fund may be invested up to 100% in debt securities. These securities will be issued by issuers whose registered office is located in an OECD country up to a minimum of 70%. The Sub-Fund may only invest in instruments issued by entities rated at least B.

(1) The summary risk indicator (SRI) is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the market or because we are not able to pay you. It ranges from 1 (low risk) to 7 (high risk). This indicator is not constant and will change according to the fund's risk profile. The lowest category does not mean risk-free. Historical data, such as that used to calculate the SRI, may not be a reliable indication of the fund's future risk profile. There is no guarantee that the investment objectives in terms of risk will be achieved.

MONTHLY MANAGEMENT COMMENT

Geopolitics remained front and center for markets in April, but the conflict changed from a phase of direct military confrontation in March towards a diplomatic stalemate, where representatives of Iran and the US are trying to negotiate an agreement to end the war after the two sides agreed on a temporary ceasefire. While the Strait of Hormuz remained functionally closed and no agreement between the two parties has been reached so far, market pressure eased considerably following the announcement of the ceasefire. Credit spreads tightened and risk assets rebounded while oil and rates remained elevated. Macroeconomic data played only a secondary role this month. For the US it can be summarized as solid and even accelerating with strong retail sales and PMI readings. Q1 GDP data printed at an annualized rate of 2% while real-time forecasts of Q2 activity are running at well over 2%. In the Eurozone the picture is reversed. Survey data has been disappointing, both for consumers and businesses and retail sales remained weak in March. The dichotomy between the economies can be explained by the higher energy dependence of Europe vs the US and hence the stronger negative impact from higher oil and gas prices, as well as the missing tailwind from AI capex in Europe which has been and remains a strong driver of US growth. Central Bank meetings did not yield any big surprises as policy rates have been left unchanged amid the high uncertainty about the duration of the conflict and the trade-off between higher inflation and weaker growth. If there is no swift resolution of the conflict however, hikes in the Eurozone and the UK are likely. Meanwhile, the earnings season has started on a solid tone. There were no major negative surprises as a result of the conflict. Some companies, such as US chemicals even highlighted an improvement in results as a consequence of higher prices for chemical products. In this environment, both Corporate Investment Grade Bond spreads tightened by 15bps and High Yield spreads outperformed, tightening by around 68bps. German 10yr Bund yields ended the month slightly higher at 3.03% while US 10yr treasury yields were up at 4.37%.

Against the favorable market backdrop, we progressively unwound our hedging positions on the credit spread side. In addition, we actively participated in new issues in the corporate bond markets (both investment grade and high yield) to reduce the previously elevated cash position. We also took advantage of attractive valuations on the interest rate side and increased portfolio duration over the course of the month. The current positioning reflects our view that the ECB may ultimately deliver fewer rate hikes than the three currently priced in by the market.

RISKS:

The fund is exposed to the following risks :risk of capital loss, interest rate risk, credit risk, risk associated with discretionary management, risk associated with commitments on forward financial instruments, counterparty risk, risks associated with portfolio concentration, liquidity risk of underlying assets, risk associated with high yield bonds, emerging markets risk, risks associated with securities financing transactions and collateral management, modelling risk, Sustainability risk and on an ancillary basis currency risk, risk associated with currency conversion

SFDR CLASSIFICATION²

The EU Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation (SFDR) is a set of EU rules which aim to make the sustainability profile of funds transparent, more comparable and better understood by end investors. Article 6: The management team does not consider sustainability risks or adverse effects of investment decisions on sustainability factors in the investment decision making process. Article 8: The management team addresses sustainability risks by integrating ESG criteria (Environment and/or Social and/or Governance) into its investment decision making process. Article 9: The management team follows a strict sustainable investment objective that significantly contributes to the challenges of the ecological transition, and addresses Sustainability Risks through ratings provided by the Management Company's external ESG data provider.
